ACADEMIC FREEDOM^{1, 2}

- A. The purpose of this statement is to promote public understanding and support of academic freedom and professional responsibility to the students, to the community, and to Chemeketa Community College. This institution is being operated for the common good and not to further the interest of either the individual instructor or the institution as a whole. The common good depends upon the free search for truth and its free expression.
- B. Academic freedom is essential to these purposes and is applied to teaching and other college-related activities. Academic freedom in its teaching aspect is fundamental for the protection of the rights of the faculty member in teaching and of the student to freedom in learning. It carries with it duties correlative with the faculty member's rights; in discussing the subject in the classroom, in research and in the publication, as a citizen, as a member of their institution, and as a member of their community.
1. A faculty member is entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing the subject, but they should be careful not to introduce into their teaching controversial matters, which is not related to their subject.³
 2. A faculty member is entitled to full freedom in research and in the publication of the results, subject to the adequate performance of their other academic duties and in concert with existing college policies and publications and printing.
 3. A faculty member is a citizen, a member of a learned profession, and a member of the educational institution. When they speak or write as a citizen, they should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but their special position in the community imposes special obligations. As a person of learning and as an education member, they should remember that the public may judge their profession and their institution by their utterances.
 4. As a member of their institution, the faculty member seeks above all to be an effective teacher. Although they observe the stated regulations of the institution, they maintain their rights to criticize and seek revision.
 5. As a member of their community, the faculty member has the rights and obligations of any citizen. They determine the amount and character of the civic and community involvement outside the institution with due regard to their responsibilities within it. As a citizen engaged in a profession that depends upon freedom for its health and integrity, the faculty member has a particular obligation to promote conditions of free inquiry and to further public understanding of academic freedom.
